

What a Week!

News of October 5

A look back...

This week we learned about many birds, and especially owls. Did you know that there's a way to remember which birds are hunters? "Eyes in front are on the hunt. Eyes on the side like to hide."

STEAM team balanced bird nests on their heads after reading There's a Nest on My Head, went birdwatching, and labeled bird parts.

In Science, the baking soda/vinegar chemical reaction was introduced. It never gets old!

A look ahead....

A short yet full week awaits when we return Wednesday! The theme is community helpers. Friday morning is a walking field trip to the Police and Fire Station.

Reminders:

- If your child stays until 3:00pm, return their blankies and stuffies on Wednesday.
- The hippo page can be made by you at home or emailed to rpcpreschool@rpcusa.org for us to print.
- We love for each child to have at least one special guest during the year! You can read during snack time or share a special talent at circle. (9:40 - 10:20) Let your child's teacher know when you'd like to come in!
