

What a Week!

News of September 29

A look back...

This week we explored apples with taste tests, diagramming parts, using them to measure and count, picking and even painting!

National Pancake Day was a hit not only for the treat but for the Rebecca Numeroff books we read while we ate.

STEAM focused on the letter D - dots and dominoes, plus apples and time to free build, expanding those creative minds.

Fine Arts Friday explored Andy Warhol's unusual use of color followed by cats vs. dogs and coloring our own Warhol line drawing.

A look ahead....

Our weekly theme is birds! We're so lucky that Mrs. Teune, a long-time Riverside teacher and bird enthusiast, will bring her (taxidermied) owl and teach about birds of prey.

Mr. Doug, RPC's Volunteer in Mission reads Monday's during snack time. He quickly becomes a fan favorite. You'll likely start hearing about him.

Friday at 10:15, meet at the Pachyderm House at the zoo for our visit with Banana the Pygmy Hippo.

If your child stays full day, on Thursday we will send home their lovies, blankies, stuffies for a wash over the long weekend. Please return them on Wednesday, October 11!
